The screenshot shows the homepage of the Military-Industrial Complex website. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the MIC logo and the text "MILITARY-INDUSTRIAL COMPLEX" and "FOUNDED JANUARY 17TH, 1963". Below the navigation bar, there are two main sections: "What is the MIC?" and "Companies of the MIC". The "What is the MIC?" section contains a paragraph explaining the term and its origin. The "Companies of the MIC" section contains a paragraph explaining the website's mission. Below these sections, there are two tabs: "By Topic" and "Yearly Totals". The "By Topic" tab is active and shows two sub-sections: "What is the Military-Industrial Complex?" and "Military-Industrial Complex Companies". The "Yearly Totals" tab is inactive and shows a table with columns for the years 2016, 2015, 2014, 2013, 2012, 2011, 2010, 2009, 2008, and 2007.

the phrase used to describe the sometimes all-too-comfortable relationship between military industry and politics.

President Dwight Eisenhower used the phrase in his January 17th, 1961 farewell address as a warning to the American people to not let this relationship go unchecked due to the "potential for the disastrous rise of misplaced power".

Companies of the MiC

For the period of ten years (2006-2016) this website has catalogued the various contracts given by the United States government to the equally-various players of the defense industry. This page captures the complete list of names - many well-known, others not so much - that represent the hidden face of the Military-Industrial Complex today. While we no longer track this information, this section stands as a testimony to the mighty cost of funding two major wars.
